NEW HOME FOR CIVIL RIGHTS INSTITUTE GETS FINISHING TOUCHES
Construction is wrapping up on our new, permanent location in downtown Riverside!

The Civil Rights Institute of Inland Southern California is the centerpiece of the new, five-story Mission Heritage Plaza, a mixed-use building on Mission Inn Avenue.

CRIIISC’s new 3,500-square-foot headquarters provides a permanent site for the celebration and defense of civil rights. The institute will offer cultural and social history exhibitions; an oral history recording media center and digital archive to preserve the history of diverse Inland communities; and space for educational programs and performances.

A Walk of Fame in front of the building will honor some of the region’s many civil rights advocates who have made a regional, statewide, national, and/or international impact on civil rights issues.

Mission Heritage Plaza also includes 72 units of affordable workforce housing and a new home for the Fair Housing Council of Riverside County. The project represents a $47 million investment, and a partnership between Wakefield Housing Development Corporation, the Fair Housing Council of Riverside County, and the Civil Rights Institute.

DON’T MISS THE OPENING CELEBRATION!
Mark your calendars for the opening festivities for the Civil Rights Institute of Inland Southern California on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22.

The celebration is free and open to the public beginning at 5 p.m. The new building at 3933 Mission Inn Avenue in downtown Riverside promises to be a vital community space to honor and learn about struggles to gain equality for all.

The party will feature outdoor music and performances, food trucks, giveaways and dedication of the Jose Medina Atrium, an outdoor event space. Guests can immerse themselves in the inaugural exhibition, “Still I Rise: The Black IE Fight for Justice,” a show exploring the historic struggles and triumphs of Black community builders in the Inland Empire from the 1890s to today.

inland communities have forged a powerful history in our fight for social justice and we want to make sure our progress continues,” said Ronald Lorenzge, President of the CRIIISC Board of Directors. “This space represents an enduring promise that we will be here to stand up for social justice for all.”
ACTIVIST, OLYMPIAN TOMMIE SMITH TO DELIVER KEYNOTE

Dr. Tommie Smith, whose raised fist became a symbol for racial justice during the 1968 Olympic games, will deliver the keynote address at the opening of the Civil Rights Institute of Inland Southern California.

Smith set a world record and earned a gold medal in the 200-meter sprint at the Mexico City games. On the awards podium, Smith and bronze medalist John Carlos silently raised their gloved fists during the national anthem to protest racism, in what became one of the most polarizing and iconic sports images of the 20th century.

Smith, the son of a sharecropper, endured death threats and painful repercussions years afterward.

He has recently written of his experience in a new graphic novel, "Victory! Stand. Raising my Fist for Justice," which is available for pre-order through Cellar Door Books in Riverside. Smith will be introduced by his co-author, Derrick Barnes, and will sign copies of his book.
